An unfortunate week

Last Saturday, my Dad got a toothache because he ate lots of snacks. My mum got a cold because she didn't wear enough clothes in the cold weather. The doctor told her to take medicine every four hours. If I were her, I'd wear a mask. My grandpa got a stomach ache because he ate too much thing. If I were him, I'd eat some congee. My grandma got a runny nose because she didn't wear enough clothes.

Today, my Dad got a burn when he was cooking congee. My Mum got a cut when she was peeling a pear. Grandpa and grandma got bruises on their arms and knees when they were riding bicycles and they fell down on it.

I went to cycling too. When I was riding the bike, a dog suddenly came. I wanted to dodge it but then I hit a tree!

I got a broken arm and a twisted ankle. I have to stay in bed for a week. Also, I need a cast too. This week was very unfortunate for us.

Good use of past continuous tense.

Good use of 'If' conditional about imaginary situations.

The robber felt powerful and escaped by his accomplice's car. After they left, Tom and I came up and tried to help. Tom comforted the security guard and I called the cops. When the police came, I told the cops what the car licence plate number ^{was} is. They said we did a very good job.

A robbery

Last Sunday, I was walking on Sunshine Road with my friend Ocean.

When we were walking past a shop, we saw a robber with a big sack and curly hair, a black coat, a mask and a pair of sport shoes. The jewellery shop's windows of the display was broken. We were stunned by the scene.

At that moment, a security guard appeared when the robber wanted to escape. The robber had a gun but the security guard only had a baton. The robber shot him in the arm. The robber didn't have any guilt and he felt he was powerful. The gun sound was very loud, so it made us afraid, so we hid behind the bookshelf.

When we saw the robber left, we rushed out. I was checked the security guard's arm and Ocean called the policeman and an ambulance came. Two days later, the security guard still stayed in the hospital and the policeman found the robber out. We will go to the court to report what happened last week.

Yesterday midnight, a thief climbed from the roof to Mr Lee's flat with a thin but flexible rope. Mr Lee was rich ~~and~~ ^{but} he was very kind. Every neighbour liked him.

When Mr Lee was sleeping, the thief brought out a big, thick sack and opened the bedside cupboard. He started putting the jewels in the sack.

When the thief was climbing away, he made a noise. Mr Lee suddenly woke up. He was frightened and angry because he saw that the drawer was open. He wanted to use a long stick to hit him but Mr Lee couldn't because it was not long enough.

Mr Mok who lived below heard the thief. He was clever and used the scissors to cut the rope.

The thief fell down and got hurt. Mr Lee quickly phoned the police and the police men took the thief away.

A robbery

One day, my friend and I went walking on Sunny Road. I felt very happy, because I went with my friend to the toy shop.

When my friend and I were walking past a fine Jewellery shop, we saw a robbery. The man had a big bag and was wearing a mask. The robber stole the Jewellery. The window of the display was broken and no more Jewellery was in the shop. Then the security saw the robbery and said "don't run, robber!"

When the security took out the baton, the robber took out his gun immediately. After the robber shot the gun, the security guard was injured in his arm.

We felt very scared, because we were worried the robber ^{would} shoot them again. Then we hid in the Newspaper booth.

After, the robber went to the car to get away. When I saw the robber left, I immediately called the police, and the police brought the security ^{guard} to hospital. Two day ago, the police caught the robber and took the Jewellery back.

Great work, Fung!

Last Sunday, I walked on the K K Road with my friend Josh. We felt glad.

When we were walking past the Fine Jewellery shop, we saw a man who wore a mask, a black jacket and had curly hair. We saw the display windows were broken and the jewellery had all disappeared!

We knew he was a robber, so we wanted to catch him. At the same time, a security guard held a stick and battled with the robber, but he had a gun and hurt the security guard. We were scared and hid behind a newspaper stand.

Then, his companion used a black car and rushed away. When they left, we were caring for the security guard and called the police. Since the security guard remembered the license plate, the next day, the robber was caught and sent to jail. That day, we had an unforgettable experience.

Excellent work, Rex! 😊

The Three Billy Goats Gruff

Once upon a time, there were three Billy Goats Gruff who were on a grassland which did not have much grass left. On the other side of a river, there were a grassland which had very refreshing and juicy grass. But they had to cross a bridge where a fierce troll lived.

The first Billy Goat Gruff was the youngest Goat. 'Trick! Track! Trick! Track!' The troll woke up from his dream. The troll stood up and asked, 'Who are you on my bridge?' The youngest goat said, 'It's me, the youngest goat in the Billy Goats Gruff family.' Troll said, 'Whatever you are, I want to gobble you up!' Goat answered, 'But I always get sick. I just got sick yesterday. If you eat me, you'll get sick, too!' The troll thought for a moment. He let him through.

After that, the second goat came to cross the bridge. Troll asked, 'Where are you going?' Goat answered, 'I want to meet my brother over there.' Troll said, 'I don't care. I'm gonna gobble you up!' Goat said, 'But I have a sore throat. If you eat me, you'll have one, too!' Troll said, 'Well... Alright, you can go.'

Finally, the oldest goat came. The troll stood up. The goat jumped on the troll's head and ran to the grassland. The troll fell into the river and was never seen again.
